

Philosophy

k12pages understands that quality education must involve quality communication between students, parents and educators. By strengthening these connections a student's chances for success are also strengthened. To this end, k12pages believes that...

...timely and relevant content is the key to communication. Parent and students will frequent a website from which they gain usable information. The premier goal of k12pages is to foster the deliver of timely and relevant information.

...educators generate the majority of educational content that needs to be communicated. k12pages offers a variety of ways to post content, including announcements, assignments, attachments, calendars, course descriptions, RSS feeds, and new page creation.

...educators are busy. k12pages has created simple, intuitive interfaces and tools to allow easy and quick posting of content.

...educators want feedback. Teachers have access to whom is tracking their classes, subscribing to announcements and assignments, and who received each email. Parents and students also have easy access to staff email addresses through their OneStop Account.

...educators need to communicate with each other. The Staff Area is an area where staff can make announcements, post links, reserve the computer lab, library, or equipment, or view staff relevant calendars. Staff can also create team calendars for planning purposes.

...a website requires more than just a webmaster. At k12pages teachers, coaches, advisors, and committee chairs are empowered to post their content. A simple but effective system of privileges allows select staff to edit specific "community" areas of the website.

...students and parents want to find usable information quickly. k12pages offers a simple, logical, and personally customized site navigation system.

...parents and students are busy. Through a k12pages' OneStop Account parents and students get served the information they want most. For even more convenience, a daily summary of the OneStop account can be emailed directly to parents and students every morning. Announcements and assignments can also be emailed directly to users.

...parents and students need to communicate with each other about education. The increased flow of timely information through the k12pages' OneStop Accounts and the daily email summary are designed to get parents and students talking to each other about school.